

Warm Market Script

The reason the successful people in this space say “Facts tell, and stories sell” is... they know your success in sponsoring people will be based on a transference a feeling, not an intellectual exchange.

And the best way to transfer a feeling is to tell your story.

Below are 3-bullet points that make up a good story.

- How I got here.
- What got me excited.
- Why I said yes.

It is always a good idea to make the story your story. You can use verbiage from other people’s stories, but make sure you create your own story.

It is also a good idea to write up your story and then memorize it, so you can internalize it and then verbalize it.

Below is the script that you can use to assist you in creating your story.

.....

Hey prospect, you obviously know what I do. You know, direct sales, network marketing, and all that kind of stuff. One of my buddies called me regarding the crypto space.

I don't know what your take is on crypto. Are you familiar with it? Do you do anything with crypto?

(Let them tell you what they do in crypto)

Well, I don't do a whole lot with crypto itself. I don't have time to chart graphs to be able to buy and sell it... Plus, I've seen too many money games in crypto that made me want to stay away from it.

But when my buddy Rick said he was building out consumer level mining pools for cryptocurrency that only cost about $5 per year to maintain.... that intrigued me, because I did own a couple miners that I have hosted at a mining farm in Colorado. And those miners make me money every day without me doing anything, but they cost a lot for than $5 per year.

So, I was intrigued.

Then he showed me the miner. A little box that was 2-inches by 3-inches by 4-inches that could sit on my windowsill that didn't make any sound.

And that blew me away, because the miners that I have hosted in Colorado... they sound like 2 vacuum cleaners running on high speed. So, no sound was pretty cool. And when he told me that the energy cost to run these little miners was around $5 year... I couldn't believe it... because the miners that I have hosted in Colorado... well, let's just say they take as much energy as 40 refrigerators. So, $5 was like... you got to be kidding?

Then I asked Rick what kind of money a guy could make with these miners and then he showed me his miner production that was posted on the block chain for his unit in Vero Beach Florida. And his miner generated over 175 HNT Tokens in the last 30-days. And when I did the math... at $13 per token, that worked out to be over $2,200 per month. And he said he got to keep half of that as the owner of the miner. So, that was like $1,100 per month.

Then I asked him how much the miners were selling for any he said around $500.

So, I bought a bunch of them.

But here's the catch, I can't just buy a bunch of these things and plug them in. They have to be at least 1,000 feet apart. So, I need to get them out to other people.

And if I give you one, to place in your house, you'll earn 10% of the whatever the miners' mine. If the one at your house does the same as Rick's house in Vero Beach, you'll earn 17.5 HNT Tokens per month... and at $13... that works out to over $200 per month.

I don't know if you'd be cool with that or interested, but I bought these boxes and I have to get them placed someplace. There's nothing out of your pocket. Nothing you have to do besides plug this darn thing in and literally... like I'll even give you a $5 bill for the electricity for the year, if you want.

All you got to do is plug this thing in and you're going to earn 10%.

And if you decide you don't want to keep it, I will pick it up and find another home for it.

But if you'd be willing to let me place one in your house, that would be awesome.

Are you open to letting me do that with you?

(If the prospect says yes, tell them)

Since you're going to get 10% of the Tokens that are mined, I need to get you into the system so the miner will automatically assign the 10% to you.

What email do you want me to send the Free to join link to?

(Send them to your 0041x Sales Page to join.)

In the email, just tell them all they have to do is click the Join for Free link on the page. You'll find many will go through the additional videos and get more excited)

(If the prospect says no, ask them)

You probably don't know anyone who'd like to make a couple hundred extra dollars per month without having to do anything; would you?